mini to the max. The entire mini line of compact HEINE pocket instruments has been completely redesigned.

Good things come in small packages – and as a result HEINE will launch a completely redesigned version of the popular mini program (top-quality diagnostic instruments in convenient, pocket-size format) at the Medica.

The basic features have not been changed: the mini 3000 line is still a series of conveniently sized, compact HEINE pocket instruments with the excellent features of HEINE full-size instruments.

The innovations are worth seeing: the modern, ergonomic design catches your eye first – the state-of-the-art materials provide not only an elegant appearance, but also the utmost stability combined with low weight. This is what makes the mini line so convenient and compact, and ensures top results in all examination situations.

The main objective for the further development of the mini 3000 line was optimized technological maturity and increased performance. Innovative features, e.g. improved XHL lens lamp technology for optimized diagnosis quality and reliability, have contributed to this success.
